If the Politicians
Made a Western . . .

BY DICK KLEINER
Hollywood Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

HOLLYWOOD (NEA)
FOOTLOOSE AND FANCY FREEWAY—

Among the candidates for the Republican nomination for congressman from my district—the 28th—is Wendell Corey. He's the actor, and a fine one, now shooting "Red Tomahawk" at Paramount. "I shouldn't have taken this part," he says, "because it cuts into my campaigning time."

Corey's dual interests—acting and politics—have prompted a game he invented. You make believe you are casting a western with well-known political figures.

For the hero, Corey would choose from either Gerald Ford, Ted Kennedy or John Lindsay.

The card sharps in the saloon scene—Bobby Kennedy and Barry Goldwater.

The hired gun—Dick Nixon.

The saloon girl—Margaret Chase Smith.

The owner of the general store—Hubert Humphrey.

The owner of the saloon, who doubles as bartender—President Johnson.

Corey may be a Republican, but his game is nonpartisan.

Speaking of games, I invented one some years ago. I call it "Occupational Diseases" and you try to figure out a gag disease for specific occupations.

Counterfeiters would get new-moneya and magicians would get trickynosis, for example.

Anyhow, I told disc jockey Gary Owens about it and he began playing it on the air and now it's all over southern California. Everybody is sending in lists of occupational diseases.

Among the contributions, my favorite is the disease which would strike members of a group of Irish hoodlums—gang-green.

Four Star has assigned Jay Simms, one of the top television writers (The Man from U.N.C.L.E., The Big Valley, The Rifleman, etc.), to develop the pilot film for Kevin the Bold, which is being adopted from the popular NEA comic strip.

We've had all kinds of stand-ins, but this is something special. For a scene in "How to Succeed," Maureen Arthur was supposed to walk away, with the camera catching a big close-up of her wiggle. Only problem was she didn't wiggle well enough to suit director David Swift. So they used—well, would you call it a sit-in?

Bobby Morse, here for "How to Succeed," has rented Gordon Macrae's house, but he and Carol are looking to buy here and settle in California permanently. . . . Vikki Carr made such a big hit with the sailors on the Kitty Hawk on her Viet Nam tour that they have nicknamed the ship the "Kitty Carr" in her honor—or so she says. . . . Between 80 and 85 per cent of all television sets in England are rented. The English pay the equivalent of $1 a week and that includes service.

Bootlegging in the record business is becoming a big problem. John Gary is now suing nine people for a quarter of a million for putting out bootleg records—they just put out copies of his records with new labels and new jackets and make a killing.

Gary says he met one of the defendants in the lawyer's office and they had a nasty session, while they gave their depositions. On the way out, the man, a song plugger, said, "Hey, Johnny, I've got a great song for you." Sic Semper Opportunists.

Businessmen
Battle the Worry Furrow

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Behind the doors of their executive washrooms many big businessmen today are waging secret wars against jowl drag, eye-bags, worry furrows and outward ravages of hangover.

In small jars, gleaming with gold ornamentation for status impact, are formulas which will at least tone down tell-tale age lines in time for a man of importance to make his speech, a television appearance, or an appointment with a youth-conscious client.

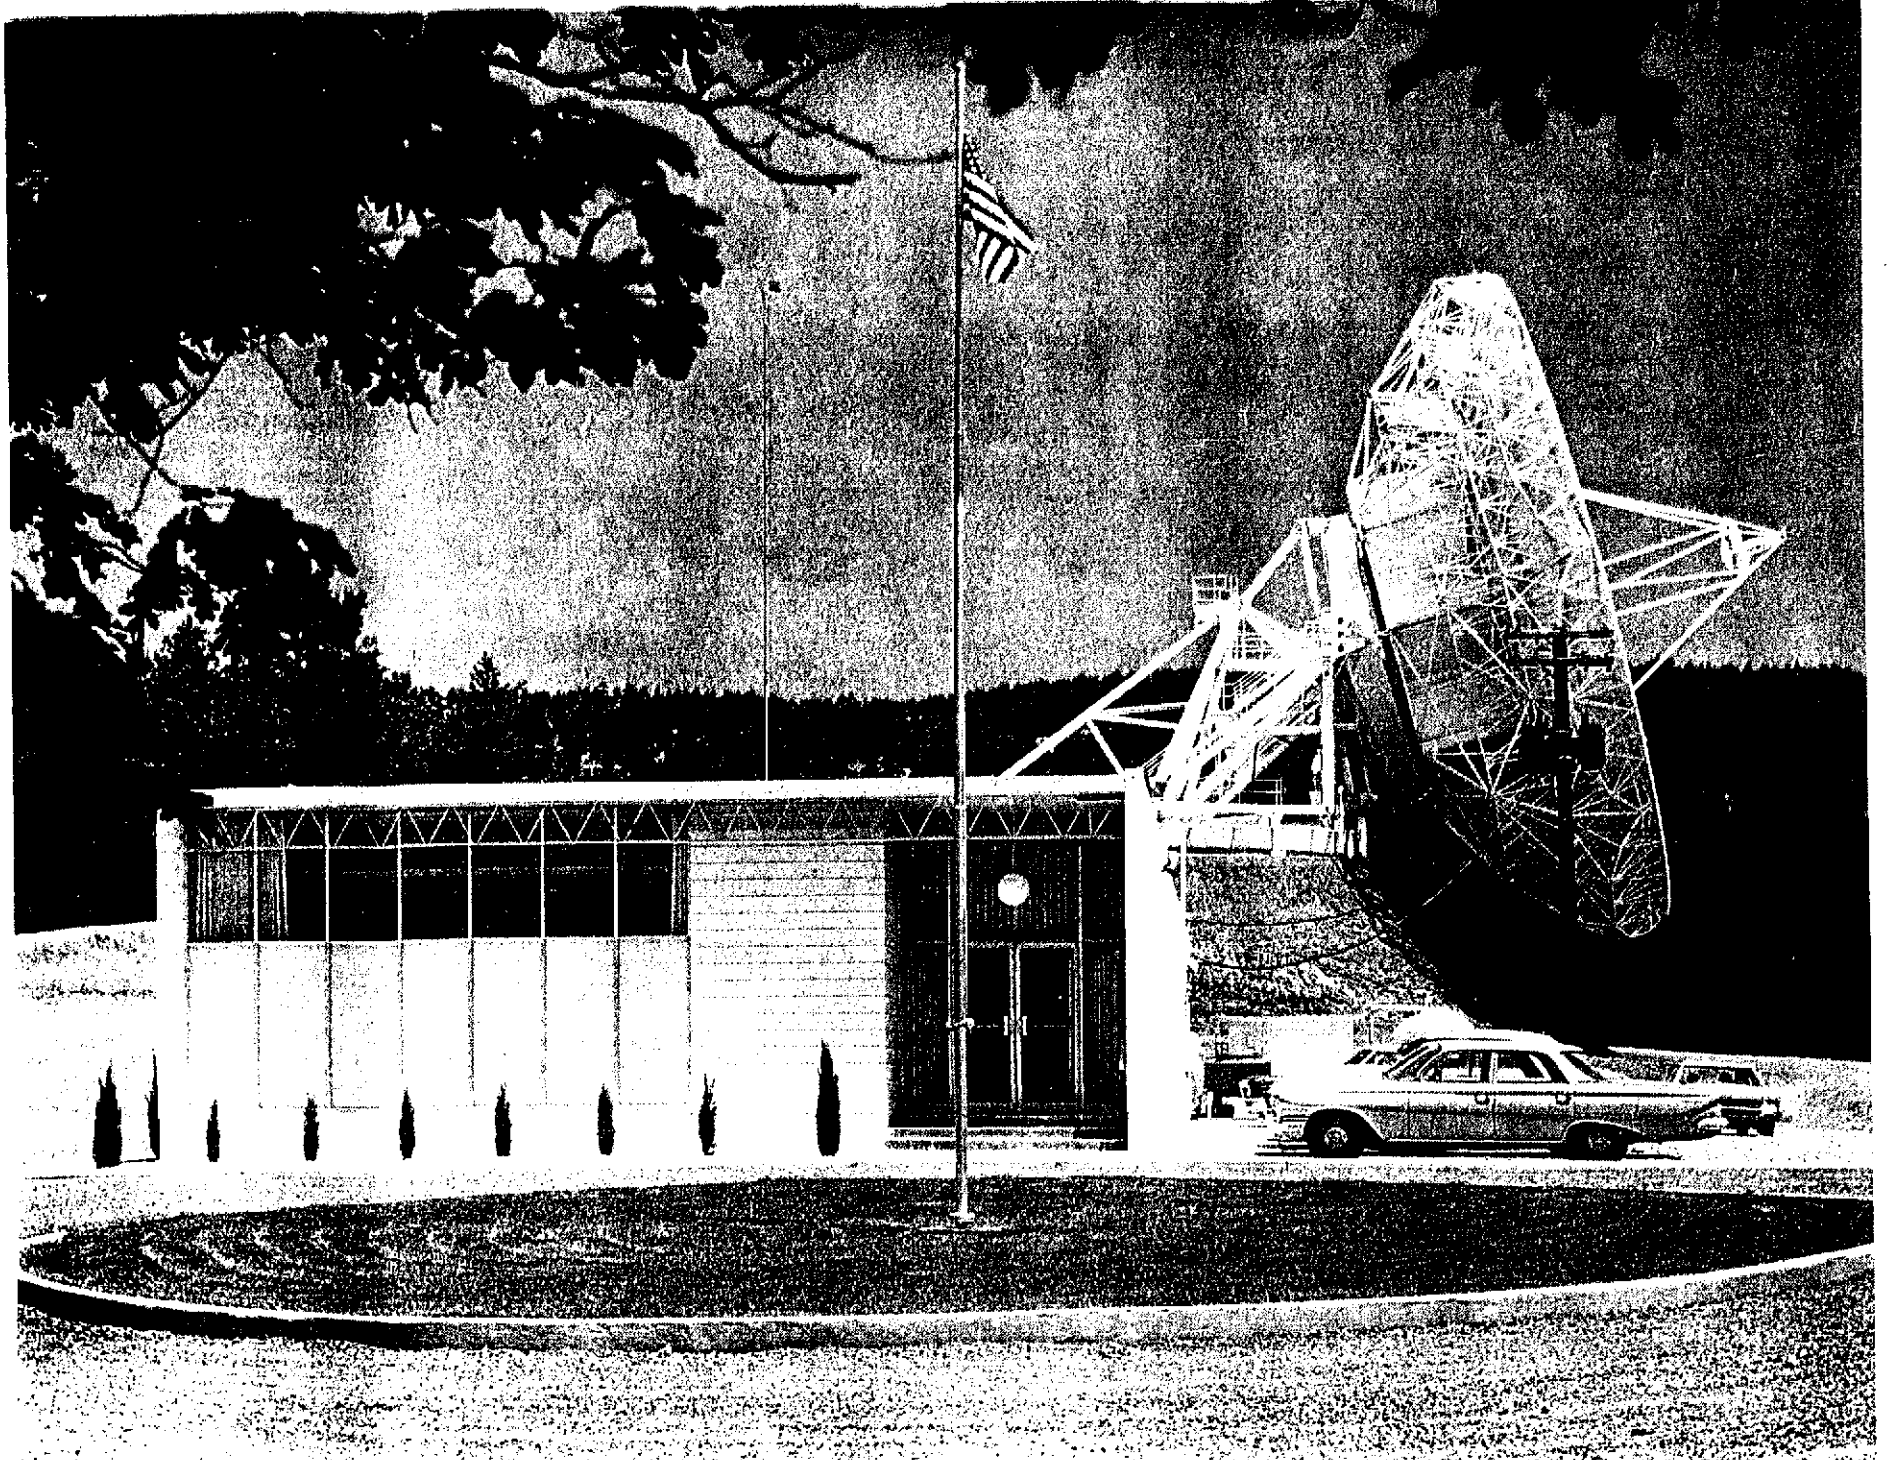

Two kinds of facial masks are selling strongly, say department store buyers here.

Eye pads, another innovation for men, are said to be helpful in draining away the strain of wee hours in time for an alert and saintly appearance at the board meeting the morning after. The maker suggests their use after exposure to smoke-filled rooms and reading too much legal fine print.

Those fashion iconoclasts, today's young males who have refused to equate high style and scents with effeminacy, have paved the way for this boom in the pretty-up business during the past three years.

Once largely limited to producing shaving soaps and astringents, 156 firms, or 30 per cent more than last year — now turn out hundreds of virile-looking red, brown, black with gold packages containing jars, bottles, atomizers, and tubes that moisturize, lubricate, mentholate and emulsify with such ingredients as lanolin, silicone, vitamins, estrogen, albumen, gelatin, sesame, and sharks'.

Satellite Station at Caddo Gap

EARTH STATION — Inaugural ceremonies heralding the first privately-owned communications satellite research station will be held May 30 at Caddo Gap, Ark. where Hughes Aircraft Company has established a site for developing and testing new satellite communications systems. Highlight of the inauguration will be disclosure of a new multiple access communications concept, developed jointly with Nippon Electric Co. of Tokyo, Japan, which permits many satellite earth stations to communicate simultaneously with one another via a single satellite. The station, shown here, occupies a 328 acre site in the Ouachita mountains, 45 miles southwest of Hot Springs.

Altogether there now are more than 303 different fragrance sold either as colognes or after-shave lotions usually with lusty names inspired by the rugged outdoors or the sea. Today the super-immaculate man can begin his morning ablutions with a bath friction that has the tingling effect of a sauna; shampoo his locks with a soap on a rope; apply bathpowder with his brass knuckles puff; shave over a translucent foam that lets him see where the most bristles are; then proceed to astringents, protective creams, deodorants; nongreasy hair oils, hand creams, and colognes. He can hold up the bathroom even longer than a woman.

Though youth pioneered as toiletries customers, the older man in ever-growing competition with youth in business and romance is unabashedly shoving his way to the front of cosmetics counter.

Special lures for him are blemish mark-outs which, when applied subtly, lighten dark circles; as well as those soothing eye pads; and five to 10-minute face masks which, like a transparent coating of egg whites lifts sagging face muscles and sagging morale.

"My customers are smart men. They hold top jobs and plan to hang onto them," a merchandise manager said of his facial mask customers. "He knows he can replace his Brooks Brothers suit any day but not his face."

Johnson's Ideal Didn't
Last Long

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — For President Johnson the ideal situation would have been four years to concentrate on his favorite field, the one he knows best, getting what he wanted through Congress.

The ideal didn't last long. The Vietnamese war got in the way. And Johnson could give only part of his attention to Congress.

This in this 1966 campaign at election year he can only hope public appreciation for what has been done at home will outweigh any public dismay or confusion about the war.

Under his guidance and prodding in 1965 Congress did a sensational legislative job, particularly in the welfare field. Four years of that would have been unmatched in American history. But the war diverted both Johnson and Congress. And what it does this year will be no match for 1965, which in turn makes Johnson himself look less like a magician.

So, if the war is frustrating the American people, it's doubly help spread discontent about it. But there's another very practical reason why Johnson doesn't go after critics like Fulbright and Morse, although he has made cracks about them: they're members of Congress and he's a politician.

"They can be helpful to him on legislation not related to the war. And they have been."

But, just because he is a politician and a realistic one, Johnson can hardly have any illusions about the memory and appreciation of a voting public which so often has had a simple, pragmatic philosophy: "What have you done for me lately?"

Johnson saw an example of it in the case of Harry S. Truman.

In 1946 the voters threw Truman's Democrats out of control of Congress and gave it to the Republicans. And when Truman himself ran for the presidency in 1948 he barely made it over Thomas E. Dewey.

Then, after four historic Truman years, there was so much discontent over the Korean War and confusion over McCarthyism that the voters put the Republicans in charge of the White House and Congress.

Then they did a fantastic switch. Highly pleased with Dwight D. Eisenhower as president, they deprived him of a Republican Congress and for six of Eisenhower's eight White House years gave Congress to the Democrats.

This is enough to confuse anybody, including Johnson.

CUMBERLAND HOUSE

In the comfort of his counselor's arms, this child's problems soon faded away.

Most emotionally disturbed children are not mentally retarded.

Still, such children were—and still are—placed in homes for the delinquent or mentally retarded; in state institutions, often in wards with psychotic patients.

Cumberland House, in Nashville, Tenn., was established in 1962 under a grant from the National Institute of Mental Health as a pilot center of a project designed to combat this.

Some 32 children now reside at Cumberland House. They live in dormitories, each housing eight students and a teacher-counselor.

The children, aged six through 12, are usually referred to the school by mental health clinics. Parents pay a tuition based on their ability to pay.

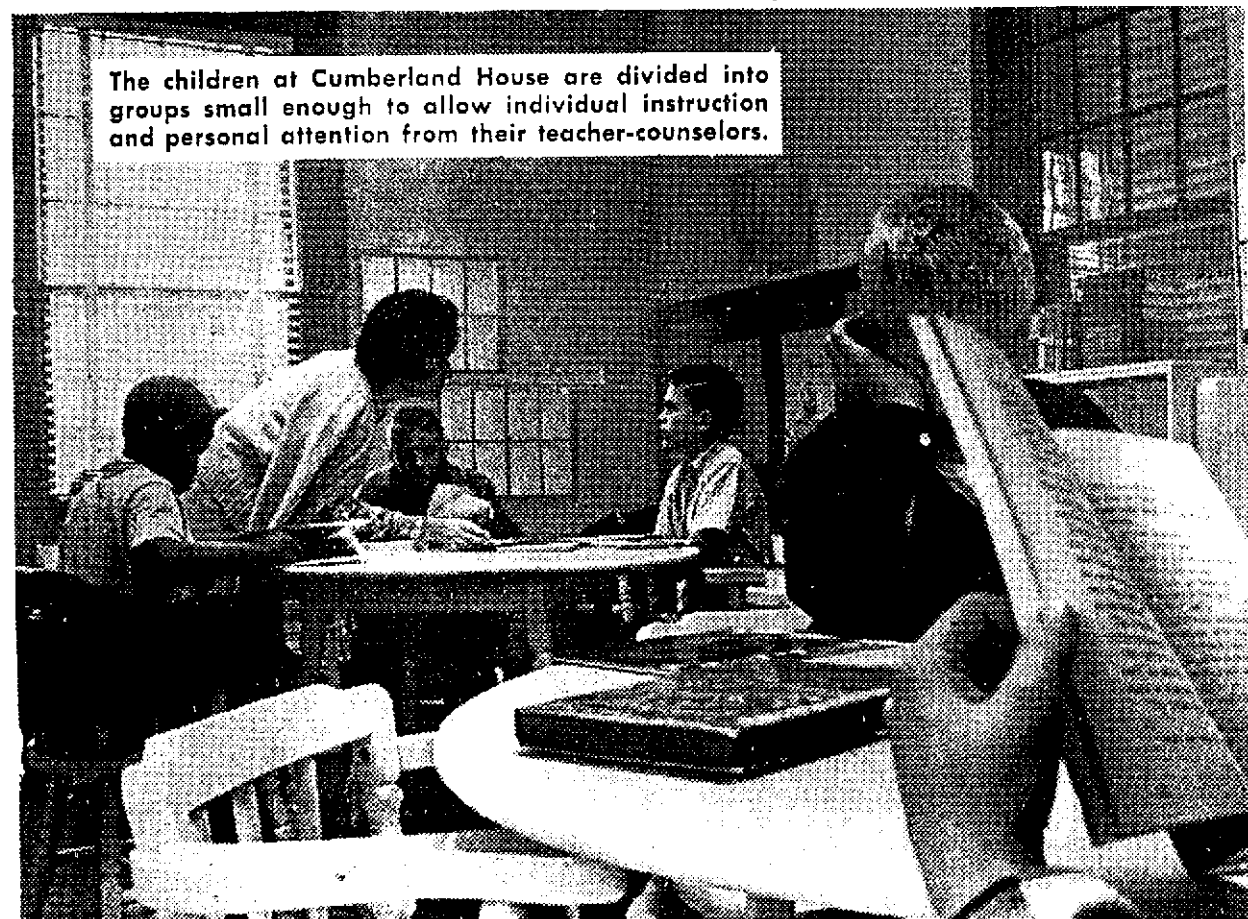

A student's life is filled with academic work, recreation and arts and crafts—an optimistic, vigorous program that makes it difficult for a child to act in a disturbed way. Each child is counseled on his particular problems and is drawn into group life.

The goal of the school is to develop ways to help disturbed children so that they won't be institutionalized as adults. The emphasis is on educating the child to adjust to all phases of normal life rather than on psychotherapy.

Many of the children are returned home and to normal schools after an average of six months. School officials do admit, though, that not all of the 250 children enrolled so far have been helped.

Dr. Kenneth Hobbs, chief investigator for the project, termed it "very remarkably successful." There has been a 75 percent improvement rate at less expense than normal psychotherapy methods, he said.

The children at Cumberland House are divided into groups small enough to allow individual instruction and personal attention from their teacher-counselors.

Students and counselor share a quiet moment of prayer before sitting down to the evening meal. After dinner, the students will have supervised homework sessions.

Man In A Corner

The evidence piles up that man is painting himself into a corner, and will have to exercise more wisdom and foresight than he has yet shown if he is to get out of it. The situation now developing is a composite of crises in population, with all the associated problems including shortage of food and resources, and in environment. Alarms about the so-called population explosion have been heard for years. Now environmental pollution is coming to be more and more in the spotlight.

There is good reason for that. Lakes and rivers are burdened with sewage and industrial waste. There are plenty of illustrations of this in the United States. Lake Erie is becoming a vast cesspool. The Mississippi, Missouri, Ohio, Potomac and numerous other rivers are heavy with waste.

The air is increasingly foul, too. As an extreme example, consider the report to Mayor Lindsay of New York that in that city the average resident must "contend with more than five times his weight each year of noxious and obnoxious airborne materials — 730 pounds a person."

That is not all. A government scientist, Dr. Harold L. Barrows of the Agriculture Department's Research Service, now warns about soil pollution. He says it is caused by adding industrial and agricultural wastes to the soil faster than the waste decomposes. Such pollutants are toxic to plants, and in extreme cases make the soil unfit for production.

Citing these particulars of environmental pollution is not alarmist. We dare not be ignorant of what is happening; we dare not shrug it off. Man may yet be able to get out of the corner into which he seems to be painting himself, but only imaginative planning and intensive effort will do it. — Daily Times Leader, West Point, Mississippi.

Election Plan for Spending Seems Bleak

WASHINGTON (AP) — The prospect appeared bleak today for congressional action on President Johnson's latest proposals to tighten control over campaign contributions and spending.

The President's suggestion Thursday for a $100 income tax deduction for political donations got some bipartisan support but the verdict of many lawmakers was nothing would come of it this election year.

Because of this mixed reception, Johnson's bill seems headed for the same kind of cold storage treatment encountered by similar bills he sponsored as a senator.

At one point when he was majority leader, Johnson introduced a "clean elections" bill and got 87 senators to cosponsor it. It never was called up for action in the Senate.

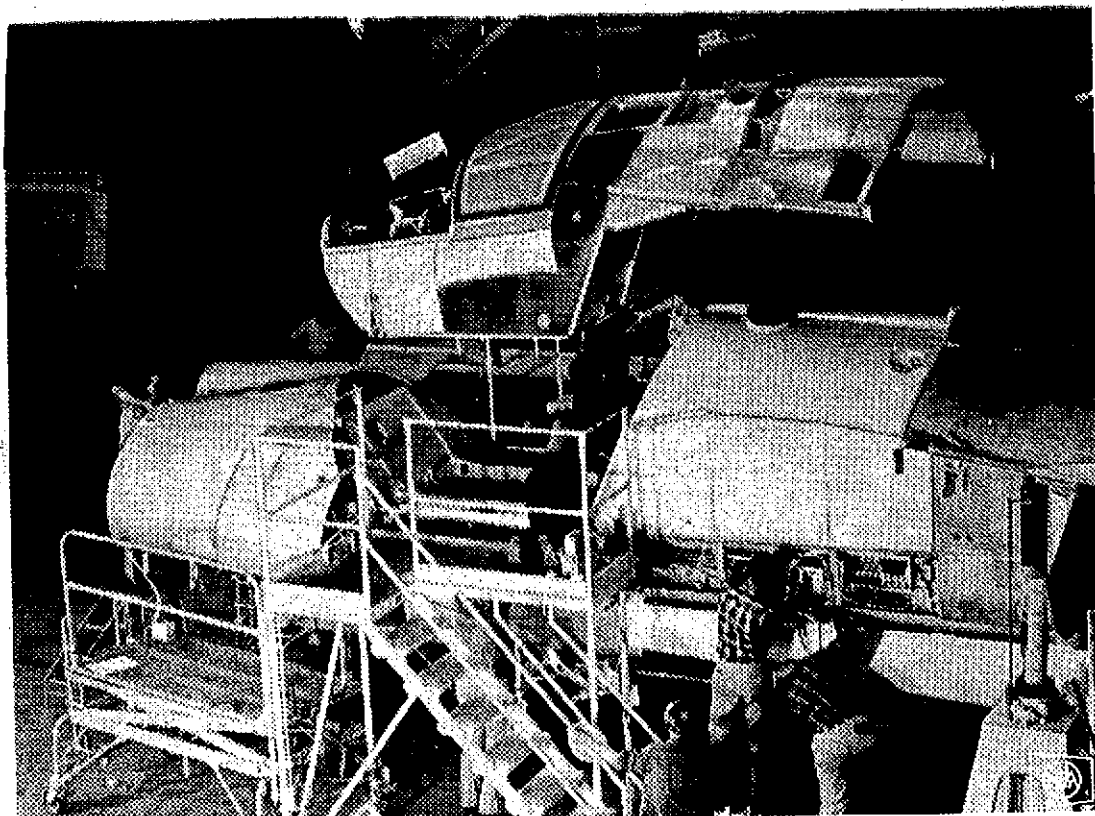

The Senate incorporated some proposals similar to Johnson's in a 1961 bill that required fuller disclosure of campaign financing. It carried even fewer teeth than a measure the Senate passed the year before.

Both were pigeonholed by the House. When the Senate approved a $50 deduction for political contributions in the 1964 tax cut bill, House conferees forced it out of the measure.

Chairman Omar Burleson, D-Tex., said his House Administration Committee may hold some hearings on the new Johnson measure, but didn't voice any particular enthusiasm for it. And word was circulating it was too late in the session to expect House action.

Chairman Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., of the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee backed Johnson's proposal and said in a separate interview he has been working with Chairman Thruston B. Morton, R-Ky., of the GOP campaign group, on a bill to provide a sliding scale of tax credits for small donations.

Magnuson said, however, he expects opposition to Johnson's request that members of the Senate and House be required to report on their outside income from such things as speeches, consultant or legal fees and any other source except from investment.

Says Jaundice Came From Birth Pill

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Mrs. Peggy Swain, 27, of Searcy, filed a $50,000 damage suit in U.S. District Court here Wednesday alleging that she contracted obstructive jaundice from taking a birth control pill.

Her attorney, Sid McMath, said the suit was the first he knew of in Arkansas involving a birth control pill. Obstructive jaundice obstructs the flow of bile.

The suit was against Parke, Davis and Co. as manufacturers of the drug Norletrin.

Spain Feels Out Joining Common Mkt.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Spain again is making diplomatic soundings about tying in with the European Common Market and, perhaps at some future time, with the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, it was reported today.

Diplomatic sources said Madrid seeks early negotiations with the European economic committee on her bid for some form of association with the six-nation continental market group.

Spain also was described as hoping for a NATO link after the troubled Atlantic defense organization takes its new shape. France is pulling out of the integrated military system July 1 and the other 14 NATO allies meet in Brussels June 6-8 to weigh how to revamp it.

It was understood Spain seeks U.S. support in its common market bid and also has made approaches in other capitals. It was reported encountering resistance from Italy, Holland and Belgium, three of the market countries. The other three are West Germany, France and Luxembourg.

Because of its past record with the Axis powers, Spain has been something of an outcast in the postwar political alignment among the Allies. Opposition to Spain's membership in NATO has continued especially strong in north European socialist ranks and Madrid has not turned in a formal application for membership.

The United States has maintained large air base in Spain, however, and with France's divorce from the NATO defense setup the question of military bases, overflight and other rights in Spain could become increasingly important.

Spanish association with NATO is not an active issue at the moment in view of major problems immediately facing the Western alliance over the French withdrawal. But diplomatic sources place an urgent tag on Madrid's desire for a link with the Common Market, which she first sought as far back as 1962.

Reds Claim New Transplant Method

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet doctors have developed a new method for transplanting bones. Pravda, the Soviet Communist party newspaper reported today. The method can save some sufferers with bone tumors and other ailments from losing an arm or leg, the paper said.

Weed, Flowers Are Actually Like Habits — the Good and Bad Seem to Grow Together

By MARY ANITA LASETER
Star Feature Writer

Have you ever noticed how weeds and flowers are like habits?

The good and the bad all seem to grow together, and the circumstances which produce an abundance of one do the same thing for the other. For instance, the rains we've had this spring have made the growth of everything reach almost jungle-like proportions. (After all, heat and rain make jungles what they are.)

It's a constant struggle to keep weeds and flowers separated, whether the area is a field or a small garden. The same is true of good and bad habits, which often "crop up" to plague or cheer us, depending on what they are.

The most fertile lands and the most fertile minds produce "weeds and flowers" in like proportion. And often the most undesirable of them seem to be the most hearty. It's up to us to provide a constant "weeding out" process to assure the survival of that which is best.

The task will never be completed — on either score. But then, Booker T. Washington said, "Success is to be measured not so much by the position one has reached in life as by the obstacles which he has overcome while trying to succeed."

Have you ever had a volunteer plant appear for no apparent reason? Perhaps you've wondered why it was there, and if it was a desirable one, you may have simply felt lucky to have it. The winds of chance could have blown something good your way, but, what is more likely, good seeds of either soul or soil were planted years before. They may have lain dormant a long time waiting for a certain warmth to bring them to the vision of man.

Unfortunately, we humans let our standards become altered, much as a plant which was once regarded as a weed becomes an edible part of our existence. As long as we merely acquire a taste for the new but wholesome, we are all right. It's when we adopt bad weeds a good flowers in our garden of life that disastrous results occur.

Release Not Cause of Slow Drainage

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Release of water from Bull Shoals, Norfolk and Greers Ferry dams into the White River is not causing the slow drainage in lowlands below Newport, Army Engineers said Wednesday.

Some farmers in the White River basin have criticized the engineers for releasing water into the basin, but Engineers said this had only a minimal effect on the stages of the river.

Conservation Plan Offered

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The state office of the Soil Conservation Service has sent to Washington a work plan for conserving and utilizing the natural resources of an eight-county area in west Arkansas.

The Arkansas River Valley Resource and Development project, formed last year, listed 122 specific improvements it would like to make over a period of time with the help of government agencies.

The plan, which covers the counties of Sebastian, Scott, Crawford, Logan, Franklin, Pope, Johnson and Yell, must be approved by Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman.

Heart Implant Patient Doing Fine

NEW YORK (AP) — A New York City hospital reported today that Mrs. Louis Ceraso continued to show improvement after sitting up in bed several times — only a week after a mechanical auxiliary ventricle was implanted in her heart.

The 63-year-old woman started sitting up in bed Wednesday at Maimonides Hospital in Brooklyn. The hospital said her strength was improving slowly.

Mrs. Ceraso, who suffered congestive heart trouble, had been bedridden for six years before Dr. Adrian Kantrowitz inserted the artificial ventricle May 18. Kantrowitz said the ventricle relieved the heart of 50 per cent of the effort needed in pumping.

Clay Heads Plan for Development

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor John V. Lindsay has announced that Gen. Lucius D. Clay (ret.) will head the mayor's proposed economic development corporation.

The Republican mayor said Wednesday Clay, a prominent figure in high GOP councils, will head the group which would have power to borrow and lend money to assist small-business men and persons wishing to go into business in New York City.

Wage-Price Guidelines Hit Trouble

By STERLING F. GREEN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration's wage-price guidelines may be headed for extensive alterations or the scrap heap.

That's the judgment of some labor-management relations experts who have good administration contacts.

Their opinions cannot be documented officially because the Johnson administration, until it has a better stabilization device to offer as a substitute, is bound to insist 3.2 per cent is now and ever shall be a reasonable, fair and noninflationary wage increase.

Nevertheless the search for a better device or a revised formula has begun. That's the job for which President Johnson recently revived the Labor-Management Advisory Committee.

He asked its advice on how to "cope with the threat of inflation in an expanding economy." Labor has repudiated the "voluntary" guidelines, imposing a ceiling only on workers' wages, the unions say, while allowing price and corporation profits to soar. And some labor relations experts hold that a guideline policy which might work in a slack economy is unlikely to work in a full employment economy.

Can a better but still voluntary way be found — one acceptable to both labor and management?

Some clue may come June 3, when the 21-member committee — seven members each from industry, labor and the public — holds its second meeting in the offices of Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz, the chairman.

A six-member working subcommittee — two leaders from each of the three sides — then will report on progress. They could come in empty-handed. Conceivably, they might even report the present guidelines are the best approach they can think of.

But there are indications hard, sincere effort is being poured into the search by the unseen but influential six. Only the labor pair has been identified. They are AFL-CIO President George Meany and United Steelworkers President I. W. Abel. Presumably the management men have equal stature in industry; if they come up with an idea, they will be listened to.

Perhaps Meany and Abel will be the two men hardest to satisfy. Labor has come to feel it was sold an unintentional bill of goods when President John F. Kennedy posted the guidelines. Disillusionment came quickly. The steelworkers signed a settlement called "noninflationary" but the steel firms promptly raised their prices.

That set off the 1962 battle between Kennedy and Big Steel. The price hike was rescinded and industry leaders denounced them, but the expanding economy stayed stable for four years.

Now, in the fifth year of an unprecedented five-year boom, things have heated up. The price creep has become a trot and profits have set records.

As the guidelines have come to be interpreted, the gains in worker productivity over the past five years should have led to a wage guideline increase from 3.2 per cent to 3.6 per cent this year.

But the White House is sticking to the 3.2 formula, even as the Labor Department reports the real spendable earnings of factory workers have declined over the past year because of price rises.

So the AFL-CIO has served notice it will hit henceforth for everything it can get, unless there is assurance of some effective restraint on prices and profits. That poses the threat of a real price-wage spiral unless the labor-management advisers bring in some bright ideas soon.

Anti-Evolution Law Voided, State to Appeal

By BILL SIMMONS

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Arkansas' anti-evolution law has been struck down on grounds it restricts freedom of learning and teaching, but the state plans to appeal the ruling to the State Supreme Court.

Chancery Court Judge Murray Reed held Friday the 1928 law was an unconstitutional restriction on the quest for knowledge. Reed's action cleared the way for legally teaching Charles Darwin's famous theory of evolution in public school classrooms.

Atty. Gen. Bruce Bennett, defending the law as a bastion against what he called growing godlessness, said he would appeal Reed's ruling to the State Supreme Court, and, if necessary, to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Susan Epperson, 24, a biology teacher at Little Rock Central High School, started the court test earlier this year with a suit challenging the constitutionality of the law, which was adopted at a statewide election in 1928.

Mrs. Epperson, said, "It sounds very good and I'm very happy about it."

She, too, is prepared to continue the fight, if necessary, even though she is leaving Little Rock to continue her education with her husband, Jon, at the University of Missouri.

If the ruling stands, Tennessee and Mississippi alone will have the nation's two remaining so-called "monkey" laws. Reed voided the law because, he said, it restricts "freedom to learn and the freedom to teach."

Jap Nuclear Attitude Is Changing

TOKYO (AP) — A growing debate in Japan over its relations with the United States and Red China is bringing forth the first vague hint that the general Japanese attitude toward nuclear arms may be changing.

The debate, centered on the Japan-U.S. security treaty and Communist China's atomic weapon potential, has focused attention on controversial proposals for a Japanese military buildup.

In this country, that suffered the world's only atomic bombings, the whole idea of rearmament — especially with nuclear weapons — has been shunned for two decades.

Now the government is proceeding more boldly with plans for a defense buildup. It also is taking a subtle stand on the question of a nuclear proliferation treaty, leaving the way open for Japan to have its own atomic weapons as long as others do.

For years to come, the military buildup is likely to be a nonnuclear one. Japanese opposition to atomic bombs goes deep. The idea of a rearmament Japan, even without nuclear weapons, is enough to make other Asian nations shiver — and Japanese officials know this.

It all started with debate over the security treaty which gives the United States the right to maintain bases in Japan while pledging to help defend the Japanese. The treaty was revised in 1960 amidst bitter rioting that forced President Dwight D. Eisenhower to cancel a scheduled trip to Japan. Either country can request another revision after 1970.

The Japanese Socialist party, which often echoes a pro-Peking line, has long waged a campaign to scrap the treaty. The Socialists cite the Viet Nam war as a reason for getting rid of American bases in Japan. They say this country could find itself involved in an Asian war against its will.

The Viet Nam war has been one reason for the early debate on the treaty revision. Prime Minister Eisaku Sato's strategy also may be responsible. Some observers think he has deliberately plunged into the debate, saying the treaty should remain unchanged, in an attempt to sway public opinion. It is said that he does not want to wait until the last minute — 1970 — and find himself in the midst of new riots.

Mrs. David Terry to Be Honored

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Mrs. David D. Terry, who led the fight against closing schools during the Little Rock integration crisis, will be honored at a dinner here June 14.

Sponsor of the public affair is the Arkansas Council on Human Relations.

Mrs. Terry, 83, organized the Women's Emergency Committee to Save Our Schools in 1958 which campaigned against Gov. Orval Faubus' school closing law and led the fight to reopen schools after Faubus closed them.

Harry Ashmore of Santa Barbara, Calif., former executive editor of the Arkansas Gazette, will be the banquet speaker.

Men Killed in Blast From P.B.

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — The men killed in the Wednesday explosion at the Pine Bluff Arsenal have been identified as Garfield Yarbough, 50, and Isaac Taggart, 43, both of Pine Bluff.

The explosion was in a one-story building where employees mix ingredients that produce colored smoke in grenades used in combat. The colored smoke is for signaling.

The blast and a fire, which was quickly put out, caused extensive damage to the building, the Army said.

Actor Saves Man From Being Hurt

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Actor Paul Newman and an electrician saved producer-director Martin Ritt from possible serious injury Tuesday on a nearby movie location.

During shooting of the film "Hombre," a camera dolly buckled, throwing Ritt off the dolly. An electrician caught Ritt in his arms and broke his fall while Newman diverted a 300-pound lamp that officials said would have struck Ritt.

The director suffered a slightly wrenched back. Newman suffered scratches and splinters in his hand.

Thieves Booty May Bite Them

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Police were looking today for thieves whose booty might bite them — with fatal results.

James Bryan, attendant at the Lexington Animal Shelter, said Thursday two cats suspected of having rabies were stolen or released from their cage at the shelter.

Bryan said a lock on the cage was broken. He said two people already bitten by the cats now will have to undergo a series of 14 or more shots as treatment for rabies.

Finds Newsmen Exasperating

LONDON (AP) — Prince Philip, who had his differences with newsmen, said today he sometimes finds newspapers "exasperating" but democracy can thrive only with a free press.

"Our society would be less diverse and much poorer without the great range of papers and periodicals which we are still lucky enough to enjoy in this country," Queen Elizabeth's husband wrote in a foreword to "Fleet Street," a new book about British papers.

10,000 Enemy Troops Poised for Big Drive

By ROBERT TUCKMAN.

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Authoritative sources said today up to 10,000 North Vietnamese regulars are poised in the Chu Phong Mountains in Cambodia, presumably for a drive against the strategic central highlands of South Viet Nam.

This was learned after Maj. Gen. Stanley R. Larsen said in Washington that up to six North Vietnamese regiments are massed in Cambodia for a possible drive into South Viet Nam. Larsen, commander of Field Force 1, comprising all major U.S. Army and Korean ground forces in about 40 per cent of South Viet Nam, made the statement at a Washington news conference.

The statement brought a denial from the U.S. Defense Department. However, the sources said intelligence reports available to military commanders here tell of North Vietnamese force in Cambodian mountains facing the Pleiku area of west-central Viet Nam.

These reports have been coming in for several months and have only been confirmed in recent weeks. According to information in Saigon, the North Vietnamese plan to move against South Viet Nam when the rainy season passes its midsummer peak, probably in early fall.

Two of the six regiments in the Cambodia mountains are the 32nd and 33rd of the North Vietnamese 325th Division which fought in the big battle last November in the Ia Drang Valley, informants said.

Johnson Hits Injustice in South Africa

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, in his first major policy statement on Africa, has publicly deplored racial and political injustice there. Officials said his word applied to Rhodesia, South Africa and Portugal's African colonies.

Addressing more than 300 African diplomats and others at an informal White House reception Thursday night, Johnson described as repugnant "the narrow and outmoded policy which in some parts of Africa permits the few to rule at the expense of the many."

In what was described as a general statement of principle, Johnson said, "The government of the United States cannot, therefore, condone the perpetuation of racial or political injustice anywhere in the world. We shall continue to provide our full share of assistance to refugees from social and political oppression."

The President said this country's support for self-determination "and an orderly transition to majority rule in every quarter of the globe" guides American policy toward white-ruled Rhodesia as in India, the Philippines, Viet Nam, Pakistan and elsewhere.

White House aides were asked whether that also was the guiding policy in the case of South Africa and the Portuguese colonies. After some hedging, one said flatly they would be included within the scope of Johnson's statement.

Johnson expressed a willingness "to help build a modern Africa" with aid, trade and other activities. And he announced that Ed Korry, U.S. ambassador to Ethiopia, will work fulltime in the weeks ahead reviewing U.S. development policies and programs in Africa.

Officials emphasized Johnson's carefully prepared remarks did not mark an expansion of existing policy but rather pulled policy guidelines together "into a coherent package."

In discussing self-government by majority rule, Johnson said "the United States has learned from lamentable personal experience the waste and injustice that result from the domination of one race by another."

He also told the diplomats "just as we are determined to remove the remnants of inequality from our own midst, we also are with you — heart and soul — as you try to do the same."

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Five and a half years ago Betty Furness deliberately closed the door on a successful and highly profitable career as television's first and still most famous pokewoman. She wanted to go back to her original choice of career: performer and commentator.

At that time she gave herself two years to make the transition, estimating it would take the public and casting directors that long to forget the face and figure they had seen so often, opening and closing refrigerator doors and crisply demonstrating household appliances.

"Well," she said Wednesday, "I haven't made it yet. It's okay in New York because I had a television show doing something quite different for a time on a local station. But if I get out of town there's always somebody who grins and says, 'Oh, I'll never in my life forget the time you couldn't get the refrigerator door to open.'"

Miss Furness is so discouraged about this association with ice boxes she no longer bothers to explain she wasn't the woman who struggled with the recalcitrant refrigerator on a live television show. Her ordeal came one night when she couldn't get the door of the dust compartment of a vacuum cleaner to open.

Always a woman with an interest in high style, Betty decided if she couldn't get people to forget the old image, she would change it. Today, Miss Furness' hair once worn up-swept and in a rather elaborate arrangement, is a sleek short cut. Her clothes are on the casual side.

"The elegant look is out now anyway, and both clothes and hair are simple," she said. "So today I look completely different than I did in the old days. Even people I've known for years don't recognize me immediately. No use. That old image is still the big problem. People—particularly people in television and advertising—still say, 'Oh, no, you couldn't do that—'

Hamilton and His 'Association'

By DICK KLEINER
Hollywood Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

HOLLYWOOD—(NEA)—George Hamilton is a gentleman, and gentlemen don't talk about their romances.

And so the nearest Hamilton gets to talking about his celebrated romance with Lynda Bird Johnson—if, indeed, there is a romance—is to mention his "association."

"An association like this," he says, "is a difficult thing. It's hard for me to draw the line between my private life and my public life. But I've always tried to keep the two separate."

He says his "association" has pros and cons for him. He recognizes that he is getting tremendous publicity now, although he does feel that some people overlook the fact that he is no George-come-lately and has had much publicity before.

But, so far, all this front-page exposure has not produced one concrete job offer. He feels that the offers he is considering are ones which would have come to him anyhow.

"I imagine," he says, "that the publicity will mean that more people will go to see the pictures I have made. And that's O.K.—that will help in the long run, provided, of course, that the pictures are good."

He is not sure that this publicity explosion is particularly good for him, however.

"Are they interested in my career," he wonders, "or in my association? The stories—some of them have been good and some haven't—often talk about everything except my career. Sometimes it gets a bit much."

And George Hamilton is dedicated to his career. He is now filming a comedy-romance which may be called "Three for a Wedding" or, perhaps, "This Way Out, Please." At the moment, there is a big fight over the title. Sandra Dee is his costar.

He says he finds it harder playing a leading man than playing a character part. But, of course, with his dark good looks, he gets more leading man roles.

"When I play a leading man," he says, "or anything that is close to myself, I have difficulty getting into the part. For me, a character part, something far afield from myself, is easier and more interesting."

He says he is fighting for character parts—"but, then, I've always had to fight for everything I've wanted."

And, at the moment, he is fighting for recognition as himself, not merely as part of a front-page "association."

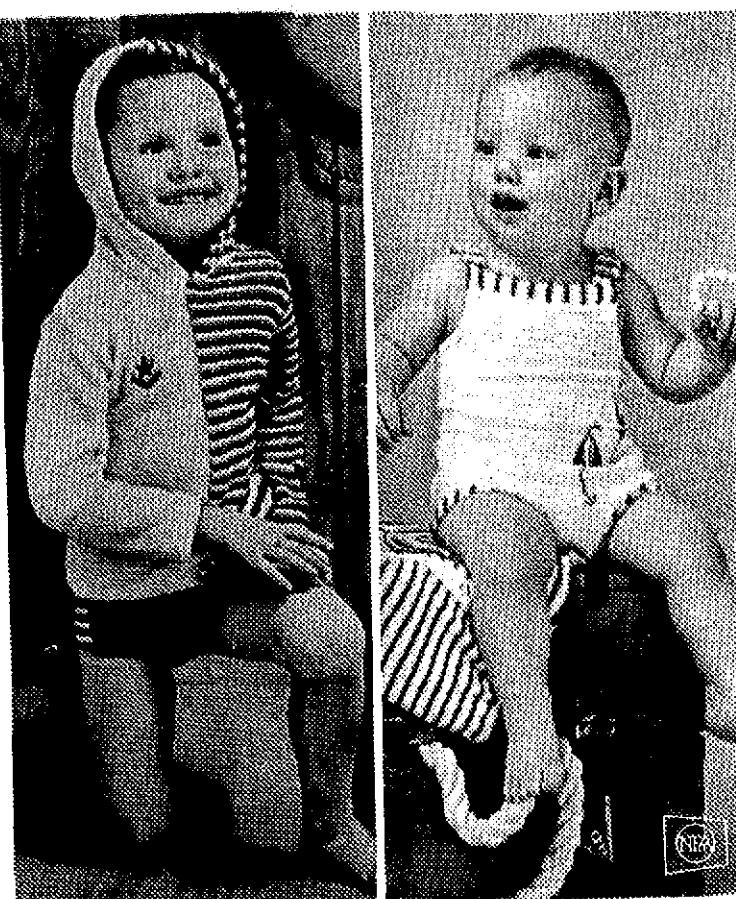

"I haven't changed from all this," he says, "but people's attitude toward me has changed. Take this crew on this picture. This is my home studio—MGM—and I grew up with this crew. We worked together for 12 years. They taught me how to box, they ribbed me, we had fun together."

"No more. Now their attitude toward me is very reserved. I haven't changed. They have."

Similarly, he feels that the public misunderstands him, too. This is primarily due to much that has been written about him.

"There is," he says, "a tremendous gap between what I really am and what the public thinks I am. Much of what the public thinks of me comes from publicity, and much of that was fabricated and much was things I said in jest. In cold print, some of that sounds different from how it should sound."

And George Hamilton says that he, like everybody else, likes to be liked. He'd like an "association" with the whole world.

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bottel

Femininity Or Lack Of It Depends On You, Not Your Job

Dear Helen: I am 18, a senior in high school. My boy friend is 20 and in the service. I've known him since I was 15, and we plan to be married, maybe, sometime. He doesn't want to marry until 1969 when he's out of the service, and I want to marry until 1969 when he's out of the service, and I want to wait until I'm at least 24.

But here's the problem I want to join the Women's Service, Wacs or Waves, but he says if I do, we are through. He says if I truly love him I won't join, because he has heard about women who did and then all of a sudden they change and lose their femininity. He says most guys think the same.

I love him, but I still want to join the Service. Tell me what to do. —L.D.

Dear L: Join the service and prove him wrong. A girl only loses her femininity if she wants to lose it, and this can happen as easily in an office job as it can in the WACS or WAVES.—H.

Dear Helen: You won't believe this but it's true. Helen, I am an 18-year-old young man and my mother still buys ALL my clothes. She won't even let me go to the store with her. I don't know where she manages to get them, but she comes home with the most babyish things possible: shirts with wide collars and boats and drums printed on them!

My one suit — you wouldn't believe it. Wide lapels, wide, baggy pants, sickly color — I've seen more stylish suits on eight-year-olds.

I feel sorry for my brothers too. They are eight and nine and have to wear short pants to Sunday School.

As far as freedom goes I am pretty limited too. I can date on weekends if I'm home by 11:30, I'm not allowed to drive though I do have my license. During the week I can go out until 8:30.

My brothers are driven to and from school, though it is in easy walking distance. I can ride my bike, if I come right straight home. My brothers can't have bikes — they're "too young." Mother says they can still ride their tricycles, but of course they won't.

My father is good to us but he sides with my mother. It is not the money — we have two cars, a boat and a nice house.

Right now my biggest problem is graduation coming up. When I tell my folks I'll need a tux for the prom (I have a date) I'm sure they'll say I have to wear my old suit. I'm afraid my mother will even go to the school about what she thinks is a "silly rule" because she thinks that awful suit is more suitable for a "boy my age." — Help

Dear Helen: Only your Dad can help. And if he's to coward to take the bull by the horns (Wow! Figure THAT one out!) then he should turn in his "father of Boys" button.

I'd make a wild guess your mother won't let you grow up because she fears getting old and a grown son brings it that don't be afraid to mix florals, much closer. A man — TWO checks and plaids as long as MEN — might make her see there is a continuing color to how foolishly wrong she is. —H.

Dear Helen: Your advice to "Gone on Him" is unrealistic. I am in my 20's, and happily married eight years. Even when I dated a decade ago, expecting a boy to stop making passes after two or three rejections was old-fashioned. The nice boys want to marry a nice girl but he will still try, over and over. Smart girls just say "No," nice but firm. The chances of getting nice boy by your yardstick are about 1,000 to one.

My wonderful husband, until the day he married me, never stopped making passes. Only after four years of marriage did he admit he would never have married me if I had given in to his arguments.

Any boy will try, and try, and try. If he really loves the girl, the rejections will only cause him to respect her more and want her for his wife. — L.B.

Dear L: Mild passes are one thing: wrestling matches another. A nice girl knows the difference — and acts accordingly. — H.

The All-Fabric Look

By Aileen Snoddy
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — The teen-ager today is learning to decorate with dash. In many cases this does not mean spending several months' allowance (and their parents' extra donations to meet youthful extravagances) to brighten a room. Deft use of inexpensive fabric applied to old furniture turns the trick.

In fact, the all-fabric look or total upholstery is growing in home furnishings design. It can be accomplished with a few tacks, paste or glue and inexpensive yard goods.

One designer took advantage of bright and clever apparel fabrics in Avril rayon and cotton to bring a refreshing fashion look to chairs, chests and other household items slated to redecorate a young girl's special room.

When buying such fabric, check the width. Select yard goods that are 45 to 54 inches wide, if possible, rather than 36 inches for a better buy per yard.

Some suggested things to cover with fabric to dress a teen-ager's room are cardboard files, kitchen chairs, plain three-drawer chests.

In some cases the young decorator will want to use colorful paints to pick up certain color tones in the fabrics she selects for her room. In addition, there is no reason why a young man cannot use the same technique to spruce up a sparsely decorated room.

Space usually is the problem. According to a decorating guidebook compiled by Seventeen, all it takes is a shifting of common room ingredients to make better use of space. For example, use a cedar chest as a nightstand or to double as a window seat. Stack chests, cabinets and bookcases to take up little space and get the most use from them. Also use color to make a room appear larger. Avoid dark colors, although very sophisticated, because they absorb light and make a room seem smaller and closer. A room with a northern light needs warm colors but a room with a warm light needs cool blues and greens or violet.

When selecting fabric to cover furniture in a room, don't be afraid to mix florals, much closer. A man — TWO checks and plaids as long as MEN — might make her see there is a continuing color to how foolishly wrong she is. —H.

Mountain Dews

Tourists who are unfamiliar with mountain driving would do well to think ahead before they start on their trips into hilly terrain. These are some points to keep in mind:

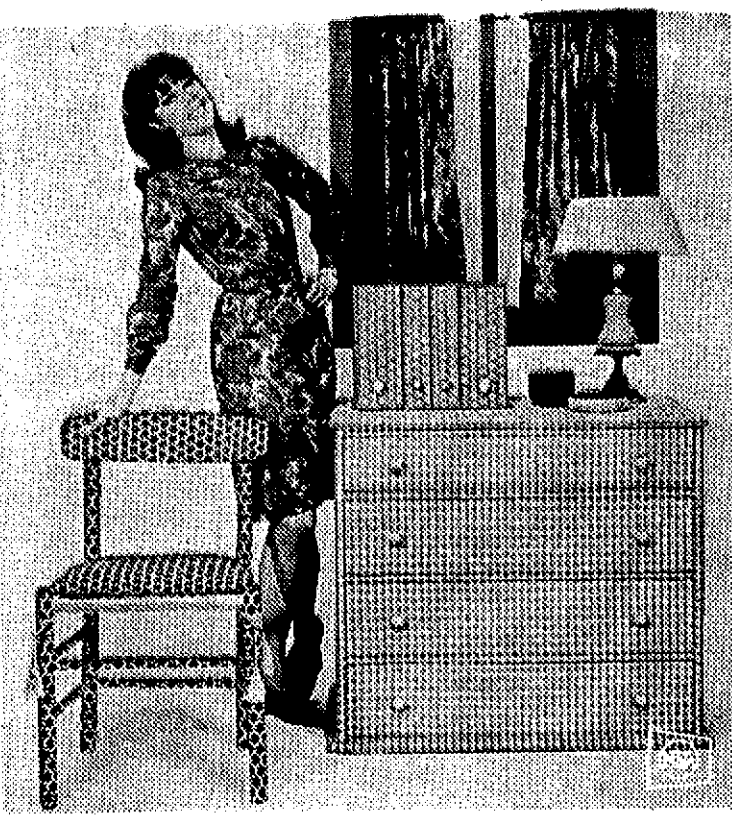

Brakes, cooling system and tires should be carefully checked by your garageman to be sure they are in good condition.

Allow plenty of room and be cautious in passing. Engines can lose power through lack of oxygen at higher altitudes.

Use low gear on downhill grades. Save your brakes to prevent the consequences of overheating or "fading."

Leave car in gear and set hand-brake when it is necessary to stop or park on mountain roads. You don't want a runaway car.

Be wary of adverse weather. It can change quickly in the mountains. State police and park rangers will provide information.

This young woman takes a cue from a home furnishings trend to cover formerly exposed wood areas with fabric. She picks Avril rayon and cotton fashion fabrics in diverse but complementary patterns for inexpensive re-decorating.

To apply fabric to furniture, do not smooth the surface completely. Rub off wax with turpentine or alcohol. A light rubbing with sandpaper or steel wool roughens the surface enough to provide a good "grip" for the fabric.

To fit fabric, hold a piece against the area to be covered and cut. If it is a stripe or plaid, line it up horizontally or vertically. With the mini-patterns, don't bother.

Apply a rubber cement to the wood. It will hold edges of cut fabric so they do not ravel. Lap fabric at bottom when covering chair legs and sides of chests or boxes but do not lap fabric around doors or drawers since this can make them fit too tightly. Let glue dry thoroughly, and trim edges of fabric with a sharp razor blade for neatness. To protect colors from mellowing as they age, spray on a shellac or brush on varnish. A plastic spray is especially good for brightly colored fabrics.

The air is the atmosphere, the solid earth is the lithosphere and the oceans the hydrosphere.

Here we go again with those flirty eyes. Specially good for summer wear are the permanently curled synthetic eyelashes.

In Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "The Singing Nun," Debbie Reynolds portrays Sister Ann, whose original songs and recordings give her both celebrity and personal problems. In the course of her work as a nun, she gaily rides a motor scooter. The heartwarming story of a young Dominican nun with a great gift for music co-stars Ricardo Montalban, Agnes Moorehead, Chad Everett, Katharine Ross, Ed Sullivan, as himself, and guest star Greer Garson. Filmed in Panavision and color, it features the world-famous Nun's Music. It was directed by Henry Kostel.

HEAR THESE WORDS

Worship In Church Every Week

The Years Ahead!

HAVE

Up to now they've been reading about it. They have had a teacher to fall back on, but now they're in it. It's THEIR LITTLE RED WAGON FROM HERE ON. They must now make decisions.

Their flour bin and their smokehouse will be only as full as they fill it. This is COMMENCEMENT DAY. They learned in church that God promised bread only by the sweat of the brow. Unless they have learned to take prosperity without pride, and adversity without anguish, they are still unprepared.

We pray they are ready for THE YEARS AHEAD.

Rock Island-UP Merger Proposed

CHICAGO (AP) - A merger with the Rock Island Lines would enable Union Pacific Railroad to recover a substantial part of traffic lost to motor carriers, a witness for the Union Pacific said Wednesday.
William S. Wyer, a transportation consultant, was testifying at an Interstate Commerce Commission hearing into the merger. Wyer said a merger would enable the new company to compete more effectively with other rail lines and over-the-road truck transportation.
Missouri Pacific Railroad and other lines are opposing the proposed merger.

Contract Poses Many Problems

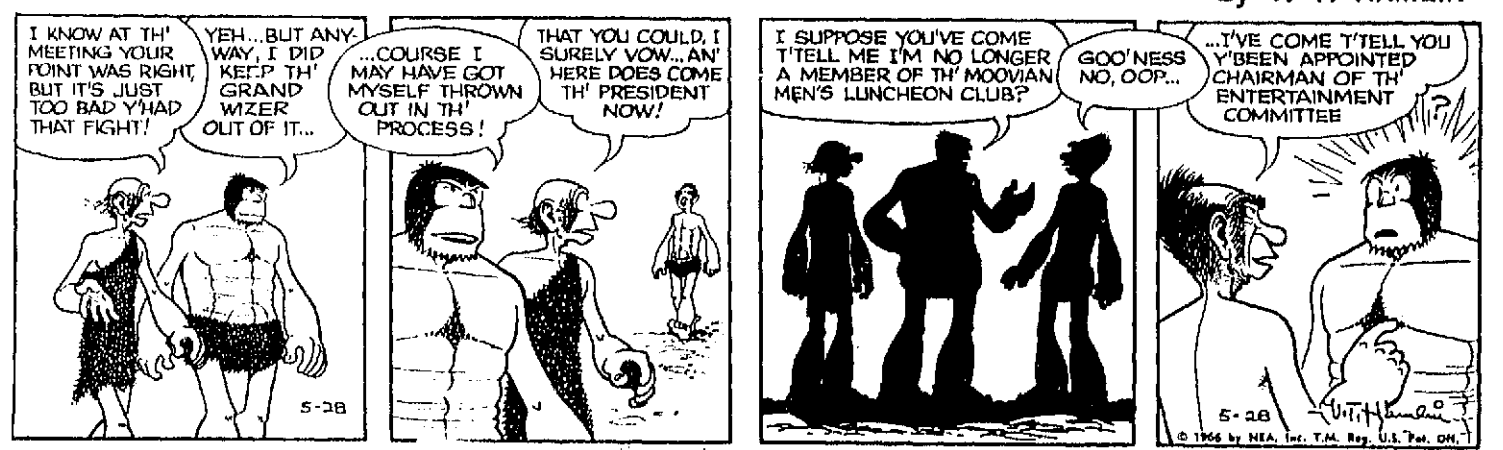

By JACOB & SON
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

There are a lot of problems in today's hand. South might well open with a forcing two bid but we favor bidding just one diamond. After North's one heart response South must bid two spades. North has 11 high card points and stoppers in both suits not bid by his partner. He certainly has enough to justify a jump to three no-trump.

South's five spade bid is sound enough but we do not approve of North's continuation to the slam. North does have 11 high card points but except for the ace of clubs they are all queens and jacks and only one queen is in one of his partner's suits. Still, we never want to criticize success and because six spades can be made, there can't be much wrong with the final contract.

If West opens anything but a trump, South will have no trouble with the slam but West has almost an automatic trump lead. A diamond opening into South's first suit would be silly and he really South wins the trump lead in his own hand and has one and only one correct play at trick two. He must lead his seven of diamonds!

The reason he leads the seven is that he wants to encourage West to rise with the king if he holds that card.

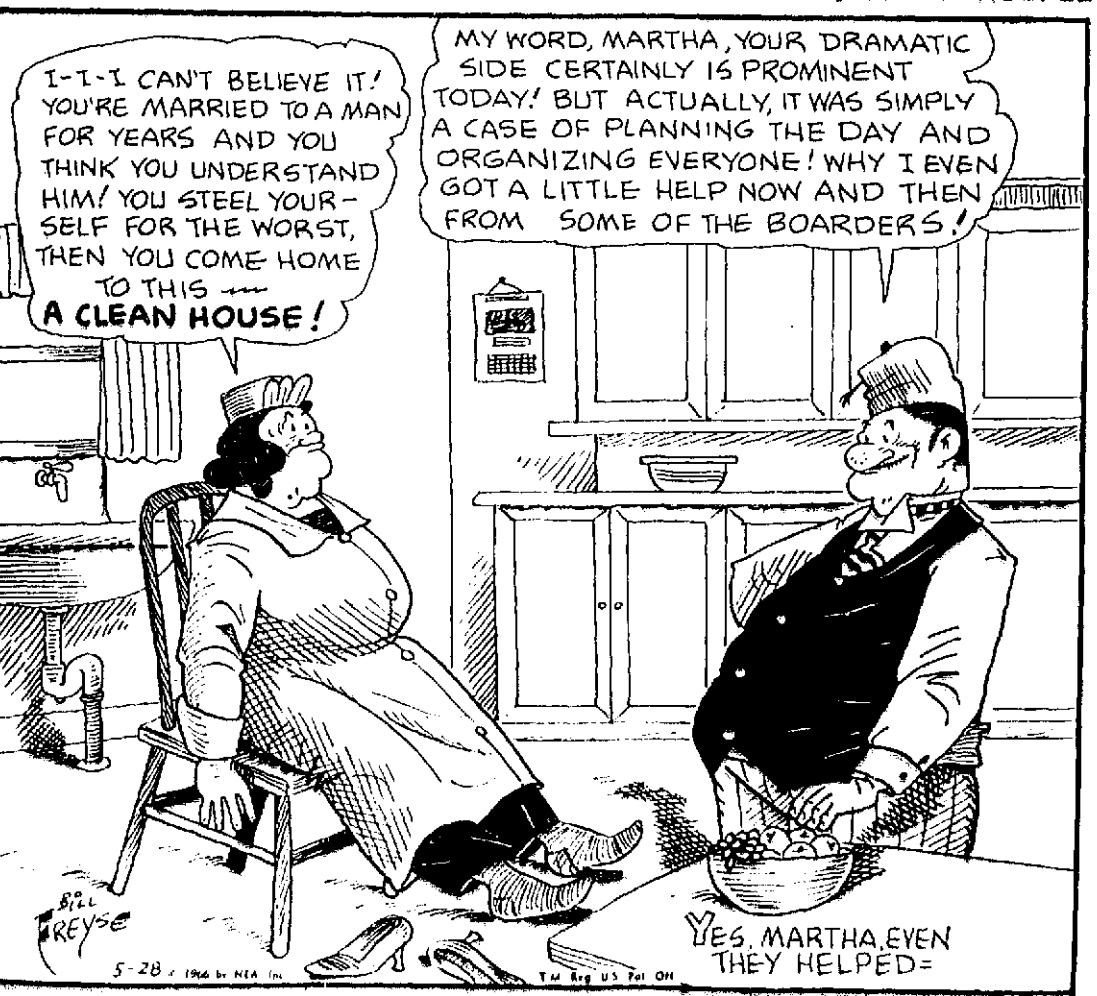

West plays low and South plays the four from dummy. If East makes his normal play of the king South has no further problems. If East has an inspiration and plays low, South must take two rounds of trumps and then play ace and another diamond.

COMEBACK PILOT—The spotlight is on Ralph Houk, here being interviewed by his old shortstop, Tony Kubek, now doing baseball broadcasts. Houk has pulled the Yankees several notches up out of the depths of the American League since taking over as New York manager after season's disastrous start.

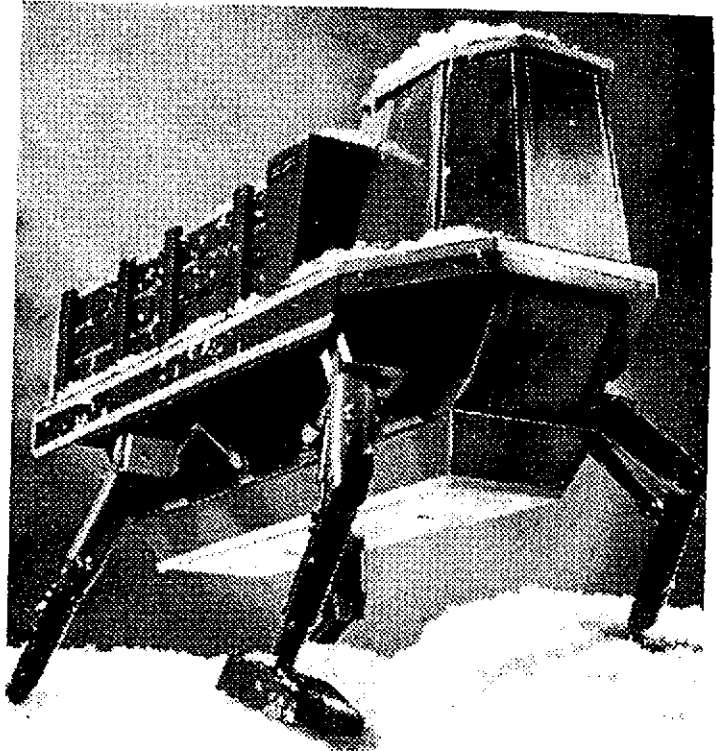

GOO-GOO — They're getting to look more like baby dresses all the time. Girl, above, was one of the go-goers who helped celebrate the first birthday of the discotheque Arthur in New York City.

SURVEYOR SET TO GO—With Surveyor, the United States counts on not only duplicating the Soviet Luna-9 feat of a soft landing on the moon but outdoing it in scientific results. Surveyor is instrumented to transmit back to earth basic scientific and engineering data essential for the manned landing to come within a few years. Scale model pictured simulates Surveyor as it nears lunar surface. In pre-launch earth testing at Holloman Air Force Base, N. Mex., Surveyor's retrorockets successfully slowed descent speed to the 3.5 m.p.h. at touchdown necessary to ensure undamaged landing. It will approach the moon at about 6,000 m.p.h.

The Peace Corps is turning its attention to a largely forgotten area—Micronesia, 2,141 islands and coral atolls in the western Pacific taken from Japan at the end of World War II and since administered by the United States under United Nations trusteeship. The area is a paradise with problems—understaffed schools, bad roads, insufficient medical facilities, inadequate water and sanitary systems. A campaign launched on campuses across the country seeks to sign up June graduates to help out. Goal is to have some 750 volunteers at work in the three island groups—the Marianas, Marshalls and Carolines—by next January.

IT WALKS—Not for the surface of the moon but right here on earth, this "walking truck" is being developed to transport loads over rugged terrain impassable to wheeled or tracked vehicles. Six-foot legs move it at speeds up to 5 m.p.h. A research model, 10-feet-tall by 10-feet-long, is being built by the General Electric Research and Development Center at Schenectady, N.Y.

Man In A Corner

The evidence piles up that man is painting himself into a corner, and will have to exercise more wisdom and foresight than he has yet shown if he is to get out of it. The situation now developing is a composite of crises in population, with all the associated problems including shortage of food and resources, and in environment. Alarms about the so-called population explosion have been heard for years. Now environmental pollution is coming to be more and more in the spotlight.

There is good reason for that. Lakes and rivers are burdened with sewage and industrial waste. There are plenty of illustrations of this in the United States. Lake Erie is becoming a vast cesspool. The Mississippi, Missouri, Ohio, Potomac and numerous other rivers are heavy with waste.

The air is increasingly foul, too. As an extreme example, consider the report to Mayor Lindsay of New York that in that city the average resident must "contend with more than five times his weight each year of noxious and obnoxious airborne materials — 730 pounds a person."

That is not all. A government scientist, Dr. Harold L. Barrows of the Agriculture Department's Research Service, now warns about soil pollution. He says it is caused by adding industrial and agricultural wastes to the soil faster than the waste decompose. Such pollutants are toxic to plants, and in extreme cases make the soil unfit for production.

Citing these particulars of environmental pollution is not alarmist. We dare not be ignorant of what is happening; we dare not shrug it off. Man may yet be able to get out of the corner into which he seems to be painting himself, but only imaginative planning and intensive effort will do it. — Daily Times Leader, West Point, Mississippi.

Election Plan for Spending Seems Bleak

WASHINGTON (AP) — The prospect appeared bleak today for congressional action on President Johnson's latest proposals to tighten control over campaign contributions and spending.

The President's suggestion Thursday for a $100 income tax deduction for political donations got some bipartisan support but the verdict of many lawmakers was nothing would come of it this election year.

Because of this mixed reception, Johnson's bill seems headed for the same kind of cold storage treatment encountered by similar bills he sponsored as a senator.

At one point when he was majority leader, Johnson introduced a "clean elections" bill and got 87 senators to cosponsor it. It never was called up for action in the Senate.

The Senate incorporated some proposals similar to Johnson's in a 1961 bill that required fuller disclosure of campaign financing. It carried even fewer teeth than a measure the Senate passed the year before.

Both were pigeonholed by the House. When the Senate approved a $50 deduction for political contributions in the 1964 tax cut bill, House conferees forced it out of the measure.

Chairman Omar Burleson, D-Tex., said his House Administration Committee may hold some hearings on the new Johnson measure, but didn't voice a particular enthusiasm for it. And word was circulating it was too late in the session to expect House action.

Chairman Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., of the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee backed Johnson's proposal and said in a separate interview he has been working with Chairman Thruston B. Morton, R-Ky., of the GOP campaign group, on a bill to provide a sliding scale of tax credits for small donations.

Magnuson said, however, he expects opposition to Johnson's request that members of the Senate and House be required to report on their outside income from such things as speeches, consultant or legal fees and any other source except from investment.

Says Jaudice Came From Birth Pill

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Mrs. Peggy Swain, 27, of Searcy, filed a $50,000 damage suit in U.S. District Court here Wednesday alleging that she contracted obstructive jaundice from taking a birth control pill.

Her attorney, Sid McMath, said the suit was the first he knew of in Arkansas involving a birth control pill. Obstructive jaundice obstructs the flow of bile.

The suit was against Parke, Davis and Co. as manufacturers of the drug Norletrin.

Spain Feels Out Joining Common Mkt.

By LEWIS GULICK
WASHINGTON (AP) — Spain again is making diplomatic soundings about tying in with the European Common Market and, perhaps at some future time, with the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, it was reported today.

Diplomatic sources said Madrid seeks early negotiations with the European economic committee on her bid for some form of association with the six-nation continental market group.

Spain also was described as hoping for a NATO link after the troubled Atlantic defense organization takes its new shape. France is pulling out of the integrated military system July 1 and the other 14 NATO allies meet in Brussels June 8-9 to weigh how to revamp it.

It was understood Spain seeks U.S. support in its common market bid and also has made approaches in other capitals. It was reported encountering resistance from Italy, Holland and Belgium, three of the market countries. The other three are West Germany, France and Luxembourg.

Because of its past record with the Axis powers, Spain has been something of an outcast in the postwar political alignment among the Allies. Opposition to Spain's membership in NATO has continued especially strong in north European socialist ranks and Madrid has not turned in a formal application for membership.

The United States has maintained large air base in Spain, however, and with France divorce from the NATO defense setup the question of military bases, overflight and other rights in Spain could become increasingly important.

Spanish association with NATO is not an active issue at the moment in view of major problems immediately facing the Western alliance over the French withdrawal. But diplomatic sources place an urgent tag on Madrid's desire for a link with the Common Market, which she first sought as far back as 1962.

Reds Claim New Transplant Method

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet doctors have developed a new method for transplanting bones, Pravda, the Soviet Communist party newspaper reported today. The method can save some sufferers with bone tumors and other ailments from losing an arm or leg, the paper said.

Welcomes a Rare Work of Nature

NEW YORK (AP) — The Museum of Modern Art in New York Wednesday welcomed a rare work of nature—Sophia Loren.

The Italian actress visited the museum with her husband, producer Carlo Ponti, to view an exhibition of photographs highlighting her career.

The exhibition was the first held by the museum on a reigning movie queen.

Wage-Price Guidelines Hit Trouble

By STERLING F. GREEN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration's wage-price guidelines may be headed for extensive alterations or the scrap heap.

That's the judgment of some labor-management relations experts who have good administration contacts.

Their opinions cannot be documented officially because the Johnson administration, until it has a better stabilization device to offer as a substitute, is bound to insist 3.2 per cent is now and ever shall be a reasonable, fair and noninflationary wage increase.

Nevertheless the search for a better device or a revised formula has begun. That's the job for which President Johnson recently revived the Labor-Management Advisory Committee. He asked its advice on how to "cope with the threat of inflation in an expanding economy."

Labor has repudiated the "voluntary" guidelines, in effect the guidelines impose a ceiling only on workers' wages, the unions say, while allowing price and corporation profits to soar. And some labor relations experts hold that a guideline policy which might work in a slack economy is unlikely to work in a full employment economy.

Can a better but still voluntary way be found — one acceptable to both labor and management?

Some clue may come June 3, when the 21-member committee — seven members each from industry, labor and the public — holds its second meeting in the office of Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz, the chairman.

A six-member working subcommittee — two leaders from each of the three sides — then will report on progress. They could come in empty-handed. Conceivably, they might even report the present guidelines are the best approach they can think of.

But there are indications hard, sincere effort is being poured into the search by the unseen but influential six. Only the labor pair has been identified. They are AFL-CIO President George Meany and United Steelworkers President I. W. Abel. Presumably the management men have equal stature in industry; if they come up with an idea, they will be listened to.

Perhaps Meany and Abel will be the two men hardest to satisfy. Labor has come to feel it was sold an unintentional bill of goods when President John F. Kennedy posted the guidelines.

Disillusionment came quickly. The steelworkers signed a settlement called "noninflationary" but the steel firms promptly raised their prices.

That set off the 1962 battle between Kennedy and Big Steel. The price hike was rescinded and industry leaders denounced them, but the expanding economy stayed stable for four years.

Now, in the fifth year of an unprecedented five-year boom, things have heated up. The price creep has become a trot and profits have set records.

As the guidelines have come to be interpreted, the gains in worker productivity over the last five years should have led to a wage guideline increase from 3.2 per cent to 3.6 per cent this year.

But the White House is sticking to the 3.2 formula, even as the Labor Department reports the real spendable earnings of factory workers have declined over the past year because of price rises.

So the AFL-CIO has served notice it will hit henceforth for everything it can get, unless there is assurance of some effective restraint on prices and profits. That poses the threat of a real price-wage spiral unless the labor-management advisers bring in some bright ideas soon.

Conservation Plan Offered

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The state office of the Soil Conservation Service has sent to Washington a work plan for conserving and utilizing the natural resources of an eight-county area in west Arkansas.

The Arkansas River Valley Resource and Development project, formed last year, listed 122 specific improvements it would like to "make over" a period of time with the help of government agencies.

The plan, which covers the counties of Sebastian, Scott, Crawford, Logan, Franklin, Pope, Johnson and Yell, must be approved by Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman.

Heart Implant Patient Doing Fine

NEW YORK (AP) — A New York City hospital reported today that Mrs. Louis Ceraso continued to show improvement after sitting up in bed several times—only a week after a mechanical auxiliary ventricle was implanted in her heart.

The 63-year-old woman started sitting up in bed Wednesday at a Maimonides Hospital in Brooklyn. The hospital said her strength was improving slowly.

Mrs. Ceraso, who suffered congestive heart trouble, had been bedridden for six years before Dr. Adrian Kantrowitz inserted the artificial ventricle May 18. Kantrowitz said the ventricle relieved the heart of 50 per cent of the effort needed in pumping.

Clay Heads Plan for Development

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor John V. Lindsay has announced that Gen. Lucius D. Clay (ret.) will head the mayor's proposed economic development corporation.

The Republican mayor said Wednesday Clay, a prominent figure in high GOP councils, will head the group which would have power to borrow and lend money to assist small-business men and persons wishing to go into business in New York City.

Officer Insults King, Sentenced

SALONIKA, Greece (AP) — A military court sentenced a Greek army officer Tuesday to three years in prison for insulting King Constantine.

Maj. Stephanos Zervas, 55, was found guilty of calling the 25-year-old king "the most illiterate monarch in the world" before a group of soldiers last July. He appealed the verdict.

Beer Falls Into the Rain Gauge

GRAND FORKS, N.D. (AP) — Several inches of beer falls occasionally on the Red River Valley, according to the old rain gauge at the University of North Dakota.

Officials said student pranksters had been pouring beer into the gauge.

Anti-Evolution Law Voided, State to Appeal

By BILL SIMMONS

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Arkansas' anti-evolution law has been struck down on grounds it restricts freedom of learning and teaching, but the state plans to appeal the ruling to the State Supreme Court.

Chancery Court Judge Murray Reed held Friday the 1928 law was an unconstitutional restriction on the quest for knowledge. Reed's action cleared the way for legally teaching Charles Darwin's famous theory of evolution in public school classrooms.

Atty. Gen. Bruce Bennett, defending the law as a bastion against what he called growing godlessness, said he would appeal Reed's ruling to the State Supreme Court, and, if necessary, to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Susan Epperson, 24, a biology teacher at Little Rock Central High School, started the court test earlier this year with a suit challenging the constitutionality of the law, which was adopted at a statewide election in 1928.

Mrs. Epperson, said, "It sounds very good and I'm very happy about it."

She, too, is prepared to continue the fight, if necessary, even though she is leaving Little Rock to continue her education with her husband, Jon, at the University of Missouri.

If the ruling stands, Tennessee and Mississippi alone will have the nation's two remaining so-called "monkey" laws.

Reed voided the law because, he said, it restricts "freedom to learn and the freedom to teach."

Jap Nuclear Attitude Is Changing

TOKYO (AP) — A growing debate in Japan over its relations with the United States and Red China is bringing forth the first vague hint that the general Japanese attitude toward nuclear arms may be changing.

The debate, centered on the Japan-U.S. security treaty and Communist China's atomic weapon potential, has focused attention on controversial proposals for a Japanese military buildup.

In this country, that suffered the world's only atomic bombings, the whole idea of rearmament — especially with nuclear weapons — has been shunned for two decades.

Now the government is proceeding more boldly with plans for a defense buildup. It also is taking a subtle stand on the question of a nuclear proliferation treaty, leaving the way open for Japan to have its own atomic weapons as long as others do.

For years to come, the military buildup is likely to be a nonnuclear one. Japanese opposition to atomic bombs goes deep. The idea of a rearmament Japan, even without nuclear weapons, is enough to make other Asian nations shiver — and Japanese officials know this.

It all started with debate over the security treaty which gives the United States the right to maintain bases in Japan while pledging to help defend the Japanese. The treaty was revised in 1960 amidst bitter rioting that forced President Dwight D. Eisenhower to cancel a scheduled trip to Japan. Either country can request another revision after 1970.

The Japanese Socialist party, which often echoes a pro-Peking line, has long waged a campaign to scrap the treaty. The Socialists cite the Viet Nam war as a reason for getting rid of American bases in Japan. They say this country could find itself involved in an Asian war against its will.

The Viet Nam war has been one reason for the early debate on the treaty revision. Prime Minister Eisaku Sato's strategy also may be responsible. Some observers think he has deliberately plunged into the debate, saying the treaty should remain unchanged, in an attempt to sway public opinion. It is said that he does not want to wait until the last minute — 1970 — and find himself in the midst of new riots.

Mrs. David Terry to Be Honored

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Mrs. David D. Terry, who led the fight against closing schools during the Little Rock integration crisis, will be honored at a dinner here June 14.

Sponsor of the public affair is the Arkansas Council on Human Relations.

Mrs. Terry, 83, organized the Women's Emergency Committee to Save Our Schools in 1958 which campaigned against Gov. Orval Faubus' school closing law and led the fight to reopen schools after Faubus closed them.

Harry Ashmore of Santa Barbara, Calif., former executive editor of the Arkansas Gazette, will be the banquet speaker.

Men Killed in Blast From P.B.

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — The men killed in the Wednesday explosion at the Pine Bluff Arsenal have been identified as Garfield Yarbrough, 50, and Isaac Taggart, 43, both of Pine Bluff.

The explosion was in a one-story building where employees mix ingredients that produce colored smoke in grenades used in combat. The colored smoke is for signaling.

The blast and a fire, which was quickly put out, caused extensive damage to the building, the Army said.

Actor Saves Man From Being Hurt

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Actor Paul Newman and an electrician saved producer-director Martin Ritt from possible serious injury Tuesday on a nearby movie location.

During shooting of the film "Hombre," a camera dolly buckled, throwing Ritt off the dolly.

An electrician caught Ritt in his arms and broke his fall while Newman diverted a 300-pound lamp that officials said would have struck Ritt.

The director suffered a slightly wrenched back. Newman suffered scratches and splinters in his hand.

Thieves Booty May Bite Them

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Police were looking today for thieves whose booty might bite them — with fatal results.

James Bryant, attendant at the Lexington Animal Shelter, said Thursday two cats suspected of having rabies were stolen or released from their cage at the shelter.

Bryant said a lock on the cage was broken. He said two people already bitten by the cats now will have to undergo a series of 14 or more shots as treatment for rabies.

Finds Newsmen Exasperating

LONDON (AP) — Prince Philip, who had his differences with newsmen, said today he sometimes finds newspapers "exasperating" but democracy can thrive only with a free press.

"Our society would be less diverse and much poorer without the great range of papers and periodicals which we are still lucky enough to enjoy in this country," Queen Elizabeth's husband wrote in a foreword to "Fleet Street," a new book about British papers.

HHH to Address Son's Class

FARIBAULT, Minn. (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey will deliver a formal speech to his youngest son, Douglas, on June 4.

Humphrey will deliver the commencement address at Shattuck School in Faribault, Minn., where Douglas, 18, will be one of the 65 graduates.

Greeks Jail Rail Union Members

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — The government began arresting members of the railway workers' union today after railway employees disregarded a government mobilization order and continued their two-day nationwide strike.

The walkout paralyzed freight and passenger rail service throughout Greece.

10,000 Enemy Troops Poised for Big Drive

By ROBERT TUCKMAN

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Authoritative sources said today up to 10,000 North Vietnamese regulars are poised in the Chu Phong Mountains in Cambodia, presumably for a drive against the strategic central highlands of South Viet Nam.

This was learned after Maj. Gen. Stanley R. Larsen said in Washington that up to six North Vietnamese regiments are massed in Cambodia for a possible drive into South Viet Nam.

Larsen, commander of Field Force 1, comprising all major U.S. Army and Korean ground forces in about 40 per cent of South Viet Nam, made the statement at a Washington news conference.

The statement brought a denial from the U.S. Defense Department.

However, the sources said intelligence reports available to military commanders here tell of 10 North Vietnamese force in Cambodian mountains facing the Pleiku area of west-central Viet Nam.

These reports have been coming in for several months and have only been confirmed in recent weeks.

According to information in Saigon, the North Vietnamese plan to move against South Viet Nam when the rainy season passes its midsummer peak, probably in early fall.

Two of the six regiments in the Cambodia mountains are the 32nd and 33rd of the North Vietnamese 325th Division which fought in the big battle last November in the Ia Drang Valley, informants said.

Johnson Hits Injustice in South Africa

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, in his first major policy statement on Africa, has publicly deplored racial and political injustice there. Officials said his word applied to Rhodesia, South Africa and Portugal's African colonies.

Addressing more than 300 African diplomats and others at an informal White House reception Thursday night, Johnson described as repugnant "the narrow and outmoded policy which in some parts of Africa permits the few to rule at the expense of the many."

In what was described as a general statement of principle, Johnson said, "The government of the United States cannot, therefore, condone the perpetuation of racial or political injustice anywhere in the world. We shall continue to provide our full share of assistance to refugees from social and political oppression."

The President said this country's support for self-determination "and an orderly transition to majority rule in every quarter of the globe" guides American policy toward white-ruled Rhodesia as in India, the Philippines, Viet Nam, Pakistan and elsewhere.

White House aides were asked whether that also was the guiding policy in the case of South Africa and the Portuguese colonies. After some hedging, one said flatly they would be included within the scope of Johnson's statement.

Johnson expressed a willingness "to help build a modern Africa" with aid, trade and other activities. And he announced that Ed Korry, U.S. ambassador to Ethiopia, will work fulltime in the weeks ahead reviewing U.S. development policies and programs in Africa.

Officials emphasized Johnson's carefully prepared remarks did not mark an expansion of existing policy but rather pulled policy guidelines together "into a coherent package."

In discussing self-government by majority rule, Johnson said "the United States has learned from lamentable personal experience the waste and injustice that result from the domination of one race by another."

He also told the diplomats "just as we are determined to remove the remnants of inequality from our own midst, we also are with you — heart and soul — as you try to do the same."
